WORKSHOP FOR EMERGING LEADERS
ON THE RULE OF LAW & POLICY

LEARN HOW TO APPLY THE RULE OF LAW IN POLICY MAKING AND DEVELOPMENT DISCOURSES
EXCLUSIVE EXPERIENCE FOR EMERGING LEADERS
CONNECT WITH YOUR PEERS FROM ASIA AND THE REST OF THE WORLD

7-12 JANUARY 2018
At the Dusit Thani Bangkok, Thailand

LEARN MORE AND APPLY: WWW.TIJFORUM.ORG
The Rule of Law and Development Program (RoLD Program) signifies collaborative efforts between the Thailand Institute of Justice (TIJ) and the Institute for Global Law and Policy (IGLP) at Harvard Law School in bringing together young scholars and policymakers to learn from like-minded peers about the intricacies of the rule of law in contemporary contexts. As an integral part of the RoLD Program, the TIJ Workshop for Emerging Leaders on the Rule of Law & Policy seeks to strengthen human capacities to formulate and develop a true understanding of how the rule of law operates within our multi-faceted society. Apart from the TIJ Workshop, the RoLD Program is comprised of the flagship Executive Program on the rule of law and development, the RoLD in Action or the application of the rule of law into real life cases, and the TIJ Public Forum.
The TIJ Workshop for Emerging Leaders offers a unique opportunity for practitioners from different sectors to engage with their global peers in policy dialogue facilitated by a network of international and interdisciplinary faculty from the TIJ and the Institute for Global Law & Policy (IGLP) at Harvard Law School. This intensive week, designed exclusively for young and successful professionals, will unlock the complex and dynamic linkages between the rule of law and policy making processes in the economic, political and social development at local, regional and international levels.

The curriculum has been customized to ensure that participants benefit from peer-to-peer learning in order to strengthen their knowledge and skills for addressing the most pressing policy challenges in today’s global environment. Through peer-to-peer collaboration, intensive mentoring and cross-training, the Workshop aims to strengthen the next generation of policy leaders as they develop innovative ideas and alternative approaches to issues of global law, economic policy, social justice and governance. Participants will benefit from the mentorship of experts, professionals and thinkers by actively partaking in thematic discussions and policy case studies covering topics that highlight the fundamental roles of the rule of law in policy development that affects our daily lives. Overall, the TIJ Workshop for Emerging Leaders offers a unique opportunity for policy practitioners from different sectors to engage with their global peers in dialogue facilitated by the faculty from the IGLP and TIJ network.

The TIJ Workshop will be convened concurrently with the Harvard IGLP Workshop for young scholars, an intensive, regionally-focused residential program for doctoral and post-doctoral scholars and junior faculty of law and policy from around the world. The Scholars Workshop will focus on the important legal and political choices embedded in policy debates on issues facing Asia and the world. Together, the two Workshops offer a unique environment for discussion between policy professionals and the most innovative young scholars undertaking research in their respective fields.
SPOTLIGHT THEME:
THE RULE OF LAW
AND SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT

The rule of law is no longer seen as only a complement to ongoing attempts at building peaceful and inclusive society, but it is the very cornerstone on which the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) rests. It is like a thread which weaves through the 2030 Agenda, forming vital conditions that create conducive environment for the advancement of equitable and sustained economic growth, as well as full realization of human rights and fundamental freedoms. In this respect, the rule of law and development are not only strongly intertwined, but are also mutually reinforcing. In order for public institutions to become more effective, accountable and inclusive, in accordance with SDGs Goal 16, it is crucial that relevant actors in all sectors come to appreciate the rule of law in all its complexities as the key factor in furthering development efforts at the national and international levels.

AT A GLANCE:
WORKSHOP FORMAT

The TIJ Workshop focuses on peer-to-peer learning and the necessary skills for understanding the policies and initiatives that affect their lives and the world at large, while drawing upon the rule of law as a guiding framework. Participants will have opportunities to:

- Work with colleagues in TIJ Policy Workshop Teams to share their practical or policy experiences, brainstorm a range of innovative approaches to familiar challenges, and benefit from peer-to-peer engagement with guidance and mentoring from experienced faculty;

- Participate in TIJ-IGLP interactive mini-courses offered by IGLP faculty to review current scholarly developments and engage in case-based learning while engaging with young scholars of law and policy from around the world;

- Learn from experts during Plenary Lectures on engaging topics related to global law and policy;

- Cultivate their skills in offering feedback, presenting experiences of their peers and synthesizing their own thoughts in a concrete policy discourse;

- Join the Field Trip and experience policy development at work;

- Present their views and concluding thoughts in a Public Forum organized by the TIJ; and

- Enjoy a uniquely Thai experience at the Cultural Outing in an exclusive setting.
TRAVEL & ACCOMMODATION

The TIJ will sponsor meals, single-occupancy accommodation, round-trip transportation and course materials for all admitted participants. Round-trip airfares will be reimbursed up to USD 1,000. Admitted participants who require a visa to enter Thailand are responsible for their own visa applications and applicable fees. The TIJ will issue a visa support letter upon request. Airport transfer between the airport and the accommodation will be provided.

ABOUT THE WORKSHOP

The objective of the TIJ Workshop is to cultivate an appreciation of the importance of the rule of law, particularly its fundamental role in the achievement of sustainable development. It provides a platform that encourages constructive discussions among practitioners across sectors and promotes interactive learning through experience sharing. With a deeper understanding of how and why the rule of law is essential for sustained and inclusive economic growth, human rights protection and sustainable development, participants will become a part of a new network of emerging leaders who will act as agents of change in their respective fields and bridge thinking into practice.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND

Young and successful professionals from diverse fields of work including government, social entrepreneurship, businesses, and civil society organizations, among others, who are

- inspired to learn about the Rule of Law and its connection to their field of work;
- determined to make a change in the policy making process; and
- ready to cultivate the network established at the Workshop in support of their roles as agents of change in society.

Participants will be mentored by renowned faculty members selected by the Institute for Global Law and Policy (IGLP) at Harvard Law School.

Deadline for application: October 23, 2017
Policy Workshop Teams
These peer-to-peer sessions form the core of the Workshop experience: an opportunity to brainstorm together in new ways about pressing policy challenges. Each participant will bring a recent policy experience to the group for discussion. Participants will be mentored by renowned faculty members selected by the Institute for Global Law and Policy (IGLP) at Harvard Law School who will facilitate thematic discussions and encourage interactive learning drawing from experiences of the participants. This small-group format allows participants to engage on a one-on-one basis with their peers and specialist faculty members, as well as to share ideas and receive feedback on their work. Participants will be assigned to a group and paired with a partner.

Team Presentations
Presenting a policy initiative is a crucial professional skill, whether one is addressing a senior colleague, a minister, a group of stakeholders or a public setting. Each participant will have the opportunity to strengthen this important skill by developing a short presentation of a policy issue with which they are familiar in their Workshop Team.

Plenary Sessions
The plenary sessions of the Workshop will feature presentations, lectures and panel discussions by accomplished experts from various fields who will provide participants with insight into the policy spheres at various levels and the underlying concepts of the rule of law. They will also serve as an overview of the most effective thinking about the rule of law as a foundation for making informed political choices and building sustainable policy.

PUBLIC FORUM
Following all the aforementioned sessions, participants will receive the opportunity during a preparatory breakout session to derive and synthesize their discussions and findings to identify key themes with regards to the possible approaches in mainstreaming the rule of law into practical policy initiatives. Selected participants from each of the Policy Team workshop sessions will be invited to present the key findings at the Public Forum to be organized in conjunction with the Workshop, which will take place on the last day of the Workshop on Friday, January 12.

Key topics that will be covered in these presentations include the importance of the rule of law in enhancing the operational environmental across all sectors and how it can be incorporated to guide business transactions and decision-making at all levels. The presentations will also feature policy recommendations covering innovative solutions for the practical application of the rule of law. Representatives will be encouraged to select a mode of presentation they think is most suitable for the content they wish to present.
Interactive mini-courses are offered by the IGLP faculty to review current scholarly developments and engage in case-based learning while engaging with global IGLP Workshop participants. Each participant will choose three of the following streams based on their interests and preferences.

3. Policy Experience
Please attach an essay (in PDF format) of at least 1,000 words but not exceeding 1,500 words describing a policy initiative in which you were involved or which you witnessed. Essays might consider questions such as:
a. What was the perceived problem?
b. What solution or solutions were proposed?
c. How did the context hinder or promote the initiative – allies? Opponents? Obstacles? How did law figure in the initiative? What did you take away from the experience?

4. Letter(s) of Recommendation
Please provide at least one (1), but no more than two (2) letter(s) of recommendation along with the referee’s contact information (in PDF format).

Remarks: If selected for participation, you will have the opportunity to extend your essay to be shared with other Workshop participants as a basis for several of our interactive sessions. Please kindly note that some of the admitted applicants may be inquired to edit and resubmit their Policy Experience essay to better suit the purposes of the Workshop in order to enhance their participation during the discussion sessions.

SELECTION CRITERIA
• The TIJ Workshop is designed for policy professionals and practitioners. Interested academics and scholars are encouraged to apply to the concurrent IGLP Workshop designed for researchers and university lecturers.
• Candidates must have at least 10-12 years of working experience.
• An important prerequisite is English language proficiency. All program materials, classes, and discussions are in English.

HOW TO APPLY
Please log on to our website at www.tijforum.org and click on “Online Application”. Once the application is completed, other Required Documents can be uploaded. Notification of Acceptance: Admitted applicants should receive a notification of acceptance via email within 7 business days of the application deadline.

Application Process: The TIJ Workshop Committee will review each applicant’s profile according to the information provided in the application along with the Required Documents. The Committee will notify applicants whose qualifications and interests fulfill the Workshop requirements and purposes.

Required Documents for Application (All documents can be uploaded online)
As part of your application, you will be asked to provide the following information:

1. Resume/CV
Please attach your most recent resume/CV in PDF format.

2. Personal Statement
Please attach a short personal statement (in PDF format) of at least 100 words but not exceeding 250 words describing yourself and why you are interested in attending the TIJ Workshop for Emerging Leaders on the Rule of Law & Policy.

CANCELLATION POLICY
After the confirmation of your participation, should your circumstances change and you are unable to attend the TIJ Emerging Leaders Workshop, you must contact the TIJ directly with a written cancellation statement by no later than 10 business days prior to the commencement of the event in order to allow for TIJ to notify waitlisted candidates about the availability of space. Regardless of the date on which the cancellation is made by the participant, the TIJ will not be held responsible for reimbursement of any expenses made by such participant (e.g. airfares, visa processing fees etc.). Likewise, in the case of ‘no shows’ at the TIJ Emerging Leaders Workshop, the participant will be fully liable for any costs incurred.
The vision of the TIJ is to be a promoter of change in the enhancement of the justice system and the integration of the rule of law into sustainable development frameworks in Thailand, the ASEAN region, and internationally through research, capacity-building and policy advocacy activities. Building on Thailand’s engagement in the UN Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice and the UN Crime Congresses, the TIJ serves as a bridge that transports global ideas to local practices, focusing on cross-cutting issues including the interconnection between the rule of law and sustainable development, peace and security. The TIJ primarily seeks to promote criminal justice system reform through the implementation of international standards and norms related to vulnerable groups in contact with the justice system while promoting coordination among domestic justice constituencies and strengthening regional cooperation, particularly within the ASEAN region.

One of the core beliefs of TIJ concerns the importance of investing in human resources and in the practical knowledge base on the rule of law, since the TIJ recognizes that the rule of law and an effective and fair criminal justice system are integral components needed in order to secure inclusive economic growth, the protection of human rights, and sustainable development.

The Institute for Global Law and Policy (IGLP) at Harvard Law School is a collaborative faculty effort to nurture innovative approaches to global policy in the face of a legal and institutional architecture manifestly ill-equipped to address our most urgent global challenges. Global poverty, conflict, injustice and inequality are also legal and institutional regimes. The IGLP explores the ways in which they are reproduced and what might be done in response. They aim to provide a platform at Harvard for new thinking about international legal and institutional arrangements, with particular emphasis on ideas and issues of importance to the global South.

Professor David Kennedy serves as Institute Director.

The Institute focuses on young scholars and policy makers who bring new ideas and perspectives to comparative and international legal research and policy. The IGLP aims to facilitate the emergence of a creative dialog among young experts from around the world, strengthening our global capacity for innovation and cooperative research. Each year, The IGLP sponsors a variety of conferences, workshops and symposia, both in Cambridge and in collaboration with friends abroad. The IGLP regularly hosts both scholars and policy practitioners as Visiting Researchers and Fellows at Harvard, deepening their collaborative network among those seeking new approaches to international law, political economy and economic development from governments, international institutions, the private sector and the non-governmental sector.

Over the last years, the IGLP has developed a large global network of scholars and policy makers who share their belief that ideas matter, and their commitment to new voices and viewpoints for thinking about global governance, social justice and economic policy. Their common goal is to better understand how power is exercised in the world today, and how original and critical thinking can transform the ways in which policy experts, intellectual leaders and citizens understand our common global situation.
